A MILE AND A QUARTER IN THE MUD IN 2:16

EAXONY, IN DEEPER MUD. IN 2:15-VOLANTE, ELRWOOD, GROVER CLEVELAND AND OTH-ERS GETTING READY FOR THE BROOK-LYN JOCKEY CLUB HANDICAP. To-morrow the Brooklyn Jockey Club. Handleap. With good weather, a good track and a good start it promises to be one of the most stirring battles ever seen on an American race-course. The horses contesting are of the highest class, the handicap is a model of impartiality, the distance is just right. Mr. McIntyre treated us to a gonulne sensation May he repeat it. The added money this year ago. May he repeat it. The added money this year is $5,000 and starters pay $100 each—a stake worth winning. These are the possible starters: worth winning. These are the possible starters:

M. Gratz, Will withdraw

If the going be heavy Mr. Gratz will withdraw Elkwood and send Fenelon for the prize. Elkwood is a famous mud-skater, his exceptionally long stride naking him absolutely harmless over a "greasy course. Rupert had not arrived at the track up to 5 p. m. yesterday, and may be considered a doubtful Wickham is not a certainty, but it would be unsafe to leave him out of the list. At the last moment Mr. Morrissey may decide to send Banburg to the post instead of Kaloolah. With these few exceptions the foregoing list may be accepted as correct.

Hanover ran his trial yesterday in the presence of a hundred anxious critics—owners, trainers, jockeys, bookmakers, touts. The going was moderately slow, not heavy, and the colt worked in the middle of the course, where the ground was less soft than by the rail. A ninety-four-pound boy was on his back. I don't know how much lead he carried, but the impression provailed that he did not have full weight up. If he had carried 125 pounds I imagine that McLaughlin would have ridden him.

Four score chronometers elicked simultaneously as the gallant chestnut, in whose speed, stamina and courage innumerable hopes are centred, strode off with a mighty bound on his trial trip. He moved quite like the Hanover of a year ago; head tossing, body swinging, feet climbing as if he was preparing to take a fence at every stride. Not a movement escaped the spectators. The quarters were clicked off one after another, the grand total was caught, and mysterious glances flashed from man to man. In the grand stand a busy hum of voices was heard as the bookmakers made carnest comparison of their timepieces. Only stient whisperings disturbed the quiet of a small knot of turfmen gathered about the judges'

Frank McCabe, standing on the track, turned his face in the direction of the Dwyer brothers, scated in chairs beside the steps. Michael Dwyer said something in an undertone and the trainer nodded. Mr. Babcock whispered to Green Morris: "How much!" and the man who sold Sir Dixon for $20,000 whispered back, "Sixteen a half." This was passed around with awful solemnity and changed to "sixteen a quarter,"
"sixteen three-quarters" and "sixteen." "Sixteen" appeared to be the verdict of the majority, and it on became known all over the course that Hanover had worked his mile and a quarter in 2:16.

No two opinions agreed in the conclusions drawn One handful of men declared with intense jubilation that it was the greatest trial over run over a heavy track. Another maintained that if Hanover couldn't do better'n that he wasn't in the hunt. A third swore that the colt pulled up lame and was much distressed. A fourth didn't pretend to know any-thing about it, for nobody outside the stable could tell what weight Hanover carried, and what's the meaning of a trial unless you know that?

The owner of Saxony came over from Sheepshead to see the performance, and Mr. Kahn's eyes looked as big ers when he beckoned to his trainer and showed him Hanover's time alongside of Saxony's. If the truth has been told the size of Mr. Kahn's eyes was not due to fear, for I have it direct from the stable that in his trial on Saturday at Sheepshead Bay, Saxony covered a mile and a quarter in 2:15, the going being much heavier than it was at the Brooklyn track yester day. I heard also, but not from the stable, that the black horse is very sore from his work. The race is going to be run to suit Saxony. Of all the horses in going to be run to suit Saxony. Of all the horses in training he is perhaps the quickest on his feet. He and Hanover will do battle at the fall of the flag, each striving for the lead and the rail. The horse that gets both will be hard to beat.

The Dwyers did not appear particularly pleased with Hanover's trial. The time—2.16—considering the condition of the course, was as good as they could have wished. But in a test of this kind it is not so much what a horse does as how he does it, and when Hanover's 2.16 is analyzed, more, not even his most devoted admirers, can fail to be disappointed. The dirst quarter was done in magnificent style in 25.1-2 seconds, a speed which, if kept up, would win the first quarter was done in magnificent style in 25 1-2 seconds, a speed which, if kept up, would win the Brooklyn Handicap in 2:07 1-2, mud or no mud. The second quarter was covered in 26 seconds, making the half 51 1-2. The time of the third quarter was 26 1-2 seconds (three-quarters, 1:18), the fourth 29 3-4 (mile, 1:47 3-4), and the fifth and last quarter, 28 1-4. This looks as if the champion of 1887 is not so good as he was at three years. The slight improvement of the last quarter over the fourth was due to the better going and an effort to finish strong. And, so far as I rould judge, Hanover did finish strong. And, so far as I rould judge, Hanover did finish strong. And, so far as I rould judge, Hanover did finish strong. And, so far as I will give him to morrow, weather permitting, he will carry his opponents literally off their legs in the first half mile and have nothing to race with the rest of the distance.

Oriflamme, the gray, worked his trial in company of Prince Royal, covering the distance with full weight up in 1:20 and haishing with something to spare. On the backstretch he let himself loose, but could not shake off the three-year-old. Godfrey rode him. His performance was viewed with entire complacency by friend and foe.

by friend and foc.

Volante, big, round, fat, beat Orifiamme half a second, doing his trial in 2:19:1-2. Los Angeles made the running for a mile, retiring much distressed in favor of a two-year-old, who carried the pride of California another quarter. Volante puffed like a bellows when his rider pulled up. "That fellow'll have to go so fast the first half that he won't know what's happened to him, and before he finds out what's wrong the rece'll be over," said an anti-Volante man, I think he is not far wrong. Murphy is in Louisville, but expects to arrive here in time to pilot "Lucky" Baldwin's "crack" to victory.

Lucky" Baldwin's "crack" to victory.

Elikood's trial, while not at all sensational, was eminently satisfactory to Mr. Gratz and Mr. Stull. His is a case of how he did it, not what he did. The time-1:23-indicates nothing, yet cut into quarters it was demonstrated that the five parts were stepped off with almost machine-like precision. If the track be dry and fast Mr. Gratz's colors will bear watching. Dry Monopole is so far from fit that there is not the remotest prospect of starting bim.

In a trial at Sheepshead Bay, Eurus gave The Bard a beating, but not so bad a one as to shake the faith of The Bard's many friends. This great son of Longfellow is more fancied by the public than by the "talent" or the trainers or hangers on of stables. These latter are sceptical of a horse who lingored at the point of death for days last season and has not raced since. Huggins believes The Bard as good as he ever was and is willing to prove it by putting up his money. It is hardly necessary to say in this column that if The Bard is The Bard, he will be dangerously near the winner of the Brooklyn Handicap. Grover Cleveland is as big as ever. His trial was run in 2:21, and on the strength of it he will go to the post well backed by his owner, trainer and jockey. Mr. Storn tells his friends not to judge the horse by his work. He has never extended himself when going it alone over the new course. In company Grover is a regular steam engine. If he doesn't win to-morrow what is going to become of him in November?

"Look out for Exile," was the warning oftenest heard at the race-course yesterday. The Brighton Beacher was never so good before, says common report, and if the track happens to be a little soft he'll be one of the three leaders at the finish. There is some disagreement regarding the other two. On a hard, fast treel Exile's followers will abandon hope and fly to hedge against the first good thing that offers.

hedge against the first good thing that offers.

Sir Dixon, Tea Tray and Fordham gave an exhibition that delighted every heart. Tea Tray led off, Fordham followed at his flank, and Sir Dixon, under a double back action pull, loafed along a length behind. They raced a mile. Tea Tray and Fordham buckled down to business very seriously. Sir Dixon, sweeping like a swallow in their wake, appeared ready at every stride to leap out of sight of them. It was like a great front teasing two nunnows. The $20,000 purchase, after cantering in this way a mile in 1:51, wanted to go two more in less time. On his form he holds the three year-old prizes at his mercy. Such perfect action is seldom seen. He is wonderfully like Kingston, only more graceful. The Carlton Stakes belong to him by general consent. Receland was ont yesterday, but his move was disappolating. These two are almost certain to meet Emperor of Norfolk in the Carlton on Wednesday, and a battle royal may be expected.

McLaughlin never rides Hanover in his work. Yes-

MicLaughlin never rides Hanover in his work. Yes-erday he exercised Joe Cotton, who is nearly ready, nd Prospect, a colt remarkably like Hanover in style, ction and color.

"How much do you weigh?" I said to America's vorite jockey, as he pulled up after giving Prospect breather.

"As I sit, in these clothes, 125," he answered.

"What are you going to ride at on Tuesday?

"A hundred and twelve."

"Nonsense, you'll kill yourself getting down."

"Fill take off ten pounds to morrow," he said heroically, and the look in his eye told me he meant to do it. It is useless to argue with such a man.

"You don't look like a dead jockey," I continued, referring to a startling paragraph in a local paper,

"No," said he, "I'm all right now. Feeling pretty good to-day."

He dismounted, sprang on Joe Cotton's back and of the betting-ring, and will personally supervise all details.

The body of Emelio Martinenge, a young Italian sailor who was drowned six weeks ago, was found yesterday near the Delaware, Lackawanna and Western Railroad dock at Nineteenth-st., and taken to Crane's morgue in Hoboken.

The annual planked shad dinner of the Jersey City Yacht Club was given yesterday afternoon in the clubhouse in Jersey-ave. About 200 members and guests sat down to the dinner, which was prepared by the steward of the club. Commodore Pearson did the honors and the affair was a success in every particular.

NEWARK. The Superintendent of the Aqueduct Board had eason to suspect that the corset manufacturing firm of Heilper & Straus, in Mechanic-st., were not paying for all the water they used. In 1883 the bills were diminished from 31,000 gallons to 14,000, and the firm claimed that two driven wells made the saving. An examination was made on Saturday by an inspector, who found a small trap door in the floor, and under the street into an iron pipe connected with a rotary pump at the wells. The street was torn up and a stop-cock was found under the cobbles. The Water Commissioners were informed of the discovery, and

Mrs. Daginor, a wealthy old lady, wandered away from her home in Ivilmore on Faturday night, and yesterlay morning her body was found in a mill pond about a mile away. AN AMERICAN CHURCH NEEDED IN BERLIN.

A meeting in aid of the American Church in Berlin will be held this evening in the Broadway Tabernacle. The Rev. Dr. William M. Taylor will preside, and addresses will be made by the Rev. Drs. R. S. Storrs, dresses will be made by the Rev. Drs. R. S. Storrs, Philip Schaff and J. M. Buckley. Mrs. Mary G. Stuckenberg, the wife of the pastor of the church in Berlin, has sent the following letter to The Tribune:

For nearly thirty years the Americans of all denominations sojourning in Berlin have assembled every Sabbath morning to hold union religious services. Professor J. H. W. Stuckenberg is now the pastor of this American Church. Recently, the number of our countrymen who have been going to Berlin for study, business and recreation has greatly increased, and the religious work demanded in this colony now requires a suitable church home in an eligible portion of the city. A church is needed there with pariors, kitchen, reading-room, Christian intelligence office, and rooms for Christian associations for young men and young women.

MORE LIGHT ON THE HATCH MYSTERY. A PRIVATE DETECTIVE TELLS A QUEER STORY

RATHER LATE IN THE DAY. The latest development in the Hatch-Scofield case known to Police Captain Reilly, of the Nineteenth Precinct, last night by Detective Clark, the special Coleman House detective, who said that on the night of Hatch's mysterious death, about 10 o'clock, D. C. Ferris, the alleged brother-in-law of Mrs. Scoffeld, went to the detective at the Coloman House and said in an excited manner, " Come with me quick. I have a big case for you."

Ferris took Clark across the road to Mme. Fanny's restaurant, and there pointed out Nathaniel Hatch and Mrs. Scoffeld, who were dining at one of the tables. Ferris then said he wished the detective to watch the couple, as he expected a sensational development. Clark consented to do so. Ferris then went away, first making an engagement with the detective for 10 the next morning, and Clark waited about until he saw the man and woman leave the restaurant. He followed them till they entered Mrs. Scoffeld's house and then went to his home in Harlem, not hear-ing any more concerning the matter until the next morning at 10 o'clock, when he met Ferris according to engagement, when Ferris rushed up to him and said:

"Didn't I tell you it was a big case? I had no idea of there being such a suddenly serious result."
Clark did not know Hatch was dead and asked Ferris what serious result there had been.
"Why," said Ferris, "Hatch's dead body has been found in the back yard of the house."

A LECTURE ON ARCTIC EXPLORATION. Henry E. Rhoades, of the Engineer Corps of the Navy, lectured before the Misses Lockwood's Seminary students and their friends on Thursday, in Presbyterian Hall, Mount Vernon, on "Potar Explorations." Lieutenant Rhoades was one of the officers of the United States steamer Juniata, which was the leading vessel to go to the Arctic Ocean in 1873 in search of the survivors of Captain Hall's expedition on the Poiaris, and among others associated with him were Lieutenants De Long and Chipp, victims of the illfated Jeannette expedition. The speaker gave graphic descriptions of experiences among the icebergs and icepacks in fogs and in clear weather, of the brilliant auroras, the midnight sun, the seal and the walrus hunts, the shooting of the auk and the eider ducks, he life and customs of the Eshimos, dog-sledging, the discovery of coal by him on the Island of Disko, and the trip of the steam launch Little Juniata across Melville Bay to Cape York in command of Lieutenant De Long.

The speaker was aided in interesting his audience by the exhibition of some of his collections—the kayak, the sledge, portions of the Eskimo dress, charcoal sketches and water-colors. He paid a tribute to the memories of Lieutenants Fe Long and Chipp, of whom he spoke with marked affection and emotion.

THE STUDENTS WILL BURY YOUNG SCUDDER. When the students of Rutgers College assembled yester when the students of futurers College assembled yester-morning at the usual Sunday service at Kirkpatrick Chapel, the chapel had been heavily draped in mourning for their fellow-student, Clarence G. Scudder, whose ter-rible death by being impaled on a wooden bar occurred on rible death by being impaled on a wooden bar occurred on Saturday, after twenty-four hours of suffering. Dr. Woodbridge preached the sermon and made especial reference to Scudder, who had just decided to study for the ministry and prepare to go to India as a missionary, his grandfather, the Rev. John Scudder, being the first medical missionary sent out by the Reformed Church. A large menument to his memory, erected by the church, stands in the churchyard of the First Reformed Church in New-Brunswick.

The whole college is in mourning for young Scudder. The college will be closed on the day of his burnal, which will be under charge of the whole college, with eight pallibearers to be selected from the Philoclean Society, the Rutgers chapter of the Delta Phi fraternity, of which Scudder was a member, and from his class. The body is now at the home of ex-Governor G. C. Ludlew. The funeral will be held at Kirkpatrick Chapef on Tuesday, at 6 p. m., and the body will be buried beside his grandfather's monument.

A Trojan, for many years an experimenter in telephones and telephoning, reading the new-paper articles referring to long-distance telephoning, became greatly interested, and being in New-York one day last week stopped at the company's main office with the idea of telephoning to his home in Troy. Upon asking if he could get a connection with the Troy office he was informed that he could, when it occurred to him to ask what the charge would be. "One dollar and a half," replied the operator, Well, I guess I shan't telephone to-day. I didn't want to buy the line, but only to use it a few minutes," replied the Trojan.

First.-" A lawyer is a learned gentleman who rescues your estate from your enemies and keeps it himself."-Lord Brougham.

Second.—"The blood-sucking bat is as talented beast who fans you to sleep with his wings and then opens a vein with his teeth."—Wallace. Third.-" The cutter is a commercial outlaw who offers to sell advertised medicines at cost in order to attract people to his store, where, if he can, he imposes upon m his own worthless imitations at a tremendous profit." -Trade Dictionary. To the truth of the last definition thousands can testify. These men are not only ruining educated and honest pharmacists, but turning the entire retail drug trade into a competition between Cheap Jacks. It is better to pay harmacists, but turning the entire residuals to be competition between Cheap Jacks. It is better to pay illying profit to an honest dealer than to risk the cutter, no matter how attractive may seem the figures on his sidewalk bulletin boards. We have already reduced the price of Dr. Craig's New Discovery from $1 25 to $1 per bottle. This is as low as the genuine can be afforded. The money is put into the medicine, not left in the form of margins to help out the cut rates. We are content with small profits from large ales, and all honest druggists are with us.

Dr. Craig's New Discovery is a blood purifier of unequalled qualities. It was not concocted; it was found, as its name indicates. The story is worth reading. Send for it; no charge. Nine-tenths of our troubles and all-ments arise from impure blood. Wearlness, lack of ambition, headache, duiness, loss of appetite, skin eruptions, and all those disagreeable signs and sensations blood, caused by impaired digestion and torpid liver. This medicine dispels them by its influence upon the vital processes. It destroys disease in the only logical wayby assisting Nature to generate more life. In all affections of the urinary organs, dropsy, stone in the kidneys and bladder, nervous prostration, rheumatism, gout and heart trouble (just now so common and fatal), its action has elicited the gratitude of sufferers and asteunded many Doubting Thomasos in medicine.

It has cured, and is curing, the most hopeless cases of Bright's disease. Write for detailed information on this

In the winter of 1877, Col. O. J. Averell, of Washington, loy at death's door with Bright's disease. He was attended by Drs. Lincoln, Stewart and others of the prominent physicians of that city, but steadily grew worse. In a few weeks his weight fell from 188 pounds to 130. At this crisis Dr. Craig's New Discovery was used and in three months Col. A. was perfectly well, and has been ever since. Send for his own narrative.

Special Caution: There is an article offered for sale by some druggists called "Dr. Craig's Original Kidney Cure." Refuse it. It is not prepared by Dr. C., nor has he any interest in it. Ask for Dr. Craig's New Discovery.

One bottle will be sent free of cost to any person who sends us a statement from a non-cutting druggist that the customer has bought six bottles. This will enable you to get the medicine at cutter's rates without risk.
